The Theodoros Bailey Myers Mason house at 1605 20th street, which has been loaned to the women's section of the Navy League as a memorial to Lieut. Commander Mason, recalls to the older Washington society many charming memories of the late commander and Mrs. Mason, who were not only known as the handsomest couple in the service, but, what is rarer still, one whose honeymoon never waned. That older society which thus so pleasantly still holds their memory still recalls and speaks of the beautiful Helen Troy which Mrs. Mason made when, with her wonderful golden hair, reaching to her knees, she impersonated the tragic heroine many years ago at the Bartlett tableaux for Epiphany Church, which engendered the attention of society for an entire week.
